Synopsis

PIPPIN is about a young man in search of what to do with his life. But likemany of us in contemporary society, he has the illusion that there is oneparticular choice which, if only he finds it, will lead to complete fulfillment and contentment. In this quest, he is guided (rightly or wrongly) by the Leading Players through a myriad of events that are hyper-sensationalized by social media. He has not yet learned that it is the process of seeking that contains the joy, not the attainment of the fame and glory itself.He also is quite selfish in his pursuits at the beginning, as most of us are when we are young. It isn't until he learns to give himself to someone else (Catherine and her daughter) that he begins to find a sense of inner peace and self-worth. Ultimately, he realizes that the demand for something without flaw or compromise is not just self-defeating but ultimately self-destructive. He must come to accept that life is never perfect and that what we have to do is find something to care about, devote ourselves to that, and do the best we can.

Getting to know this cast has been a lot of fun. I didn't get to know most of this year's freshmen during the first semester since it was such a small cast, I'm glad I got to see how the next generation of theater kids is going to be. You all are so cute and sweet! Stay like that and stay close! It's nice to see people that are so often on good terms. To Drooly, maybe you should invest in some handkerchiefs. But seriously I love you you're too cute.

Even though this has been a lot of hard work, I think that everyone is going to do excellently onstage, even though as I write this we're still struggling. I want to wish the freshmen who haven't been onstage for a performance yet to break a leg! It's really exciting being onstage for the first time, and I think you all are going to enjoy it.

Even though I haven't gotten to spend much time with the cast, I want you all to know that for the most part you've been great to work with and I wish you all the best of luck in all of your future endeavors!

Have fun, break a leg, and remember to lean on each other, not shove each other away!

-Elyssa
